

A Fellow Winner

Shrikanth Narayan has been elected a fellow of the Acoustical Society of America.

Shrikanth Narayan

Narayanan, an associate professor who holds appointments in the USC Viterbi School of Engineering departments of electrical engineering and computer science as well as in the USC College department of linguistics, was one of a small handful of investigators who this year won the title of fellow of the Acoustical Society of America.

His commendation, which cites his contributions in speech production and imaging, became effective Nov. 1. He will be officially honored at the ASA's annual plenary session this spring in Providence, R.I.